We All Have 'Em

Eastend Enterprise: One of the many handups that confront a publisher these days is the pernicious practice of passing the weekly paper over the back fence. We have always contended that if a person isn't interested enough in a newspaper to subscribe for it he shouldn't ask his neighbor to loan it. No one could find the least objection to a person borrowing his neighbor's paper if he could not afford the small annual subscription price. But there are quite a few people well able to subscribe who club with their neighbors or else borrow the paper outright. This is a form of petty miserliness that would out Scrooge Old Scrooge himself. The price of the paper on a yearly basis works out at less than three cents per copy. If most weekly publishers had any way of figuring out the number of readers who scan the columns of the newspaper without paying for it they could add about 25 per cent to their circulation totals. But there is no way of dealing with this situation. It is one of the petty meannesses to be found in all communities, although, thank goodness, the majority of people are too independent to indulge in such a practice.

Disastrous Fire Destroys Feed Barn and Blacksmith Shop

A disastrous fire occurred in town on Tuesday, October 9, when the Livestock and Feed Barn belonging to H. Crozier and the Blacksmith Shop of J. Westburg were completely destroyed. The fire broke out with dramatic suddenness in the hay loft of the barn; where some ten tons of green feed were in storage. Undoubtedly gas created in the green feed caused by the unusual heat of the day, created spontaneous combustion. Palls of black smoke, all of a sudden, started to issue from the roof of the barn and in a few seconds the whole roof of the barn was ablaze.
Evidence of the suddenness of the fire is shown by what happened to a load of feed brought in by Vic Steinley. He pulled alongside the barn with a load of green feed, unhitched his team and took them in the barn, and noticed sparks commencing to fall from the roof as he led them to a stall. (At that time the alarm was given.) He got his team out, drew his load of feed—which in the brief interval had caught on fire—away from the barn, and dumped the rack and feed, and both rack and feed were completely destroyed by the fire.

Fortunately all the horses in the barn were got out safely, and the poultry was also saved. The fire had such a hold on the building it was impossible to do more than to prevent it from spreading. Citizens were helped in this by the fact that the wind was in a favorable position.
Mr. Crozier has some insurance on the barn, but Mr. Westburg has none on his shop, and the loss is a heavy one for him.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McCane and family, of Madison, Sask., were in town over Thanksgiving.

Troy all eggs in stubble land will reduce next year's outbreak to such an extent that poisoning will only be necessary along the edges of fields. Farmers are urged to keep in touch with the department at Edmonton, or the Federal Entomological service at Lethbridge for further advice on the problem.

Annual Dinner of Empress Catholic Church

There was a good attendance at the annual dinner of the Catholic Church held on Wednesday, October 4. As usual, a most tasty and enjoyable repast was served, the ladies fully living up to the reputation earned on previous occasions. Bishop J. P. Monaghan, of Calgary, addressed the members of the church in the afternoon, and those gathered to the dinner in the evening. He urged that the people, at this time should form groups and learn to manufacture clothing and household needs, and the men should also endeavor to make and repair useful things wherever possible on the farm, so that thrift be encouraged and they endeavor to make themselves, as much as possible, self-sustaining.

Wheat Inspections

An interesting analysis of most inspectsions so far this year reflects the effects of the early heavy frosts on the grades of grain in the northern districts, but reveals also the very gratifying information that Southern Alberta has not only marketed much more wheat at this date than was the case last year, but that the grades are just as good if not a shade better. Calgary reports a total of 5,520 cars inspected between August 15th, and September 30th, with 89 p.c. of the wheat inspected grading No. 1 or better, as compared with a total inspection of only 3,474 cars in the same period last year, with the grading percentage just about the same. At Edmonton, however, there is not only a drop of nearly 1,000 cars in the number inspected since August 15th, as compared with last year, but the percentage of those grading number 2 or better has dropped this year to 72.2 per cent, from last year's percentage of 91.

We leave the matter of Municipal Hall Insurance in abeyance.

Rowles—That nomination be held at Trowsley School on Monday, the 19th day of November, at 1 o'clock.

Edwards—That the Secretary-Treasurer be returning officer. Francis—That the polling place and Deputy Returning Officers be as under:
Div. 1, residence of E. Klush.

THE PRACTICAL and THE IDEAL

Alberta Pool Elevators is a creation of the Agricultural co-operative movement and as such is closely knit to the families on the land who believe in and act upon the principles of co-operation in order to better their condition.

Commercial success is highly important but it is to be regarded only as a means to an end—the improvement of the living conditions of rural people.

The major function of this extensive country and terminal elevator system owned by Alberta farmers is to give support to their natural aspirations for a more secure rural tenure.

Both the practical and the ideal sides of the farm movement are united in Alberta Pool Elevators and on this basis a general appeal for support is extended to all grain growers.

260 Miners Lose Lives In Explosion Disaster In Welsh Coal Mine

Wrexham, Wales.—It was officially stated Sunday night, 24th inst., that 260 miners had lost their lives in Saturday's explosion and fire at the Gresford collieries.

Frantic rescue efforts were halted by a succession of new explosions in the workings. Rescue workers were called from the mine and it was decided to seal the shaft at the top.

The statement said the explosions were becoming frequent near places where rescuers were working. It was added that air pouring from the mine working contained carbon monoxide in dangerous quantities.

"Because of these circumstances, and in view of the increasingly great risk to men engaged in combating the fire, it was decided it would not be right to continue to expose these workers to such serious risk, and all persons have been withdrawn," the company statement said.

The explosion occurred in a section known as "the Dennis main from," ranging from 200 to 250 yards below the surface. Five of the men who escaped from the blast spent nearly an hour climbing a narrow shaft to the surface.

At the pitmouth stood the miners' women.

It was pouring rain, but they paid no attention; now and then one was seen to faint, collapsing into the pools of water in which they stood.

A number of "legions" assisted in filling the sand bags which were being carried down to fight the fire. One of the clergymen was crying quietly as he worked; two of his choir boys were trapped below in the mine.

Dozens of hands were raised into the air when a call was made for volunteers to go down into the mine and gas inferno. It was feared the captain of the rescue team had perished. He did not come out with the rescue party which retreated to the surface carrying two dead companions.

As a further barrier against the efforts of the rescue workers, huge rocks tumbled into the mine after the explosion. Several rescue workers suffered from gas poisoning and were removed to the repair shed for treatment.

Many of the trapped men went to work on the night shift in order to be free to go to a football game scheduled to be played at Wrexham Saturday, increasing the number of workers usually on the shift.

Morro Castle Quiz

Startling Information Is Gleaned From Investigation

New York.—If obeyed, the last order from the bridge to the engine room of the Morro Castle would have left the flaming liner drifting helplessly about the ocean, a whirl of death and fire, evidence at the United States department of commerce inquiry showed.

The engine crew, however, disobeyed the order and put the engines into steam.

This testimony was given by an 18-year-old Massachusetts Institute of Technology student, William Wesley Tripp, who was on the tragic voyage from Havana as a cadet engineer.

Details of the death of Captain Robert R. Williams—who suffered an acute attack of indigestion and died only several hours before fire broke out on his liner—were given by Howard Hansen, the fourth officer who testified he saw no marks of violence on the body.

Hansen was being persistent that the master met foul play. The few charred bones found in the cabin where his body was cremated in the holocaust are now being examined for any evidence of poison.

Circus Lion Caused Panic

Shot By Guards After Escape From Circus Grounds

Richmond, Va.—Breaking open his cage during a circus parade a lion dragged down a horse pulling one of the wagons and then ran into the crowd on the boulevard while crowds of spectators fled in panic.

Circus guards shortly after shot the animal to death. The beast ran several hundred yards down the street after Patrolman John Hubert. Paul had fired five times at him as he sank his fangs into the horse's neck, taking refuge in the Hanks-Johnson sheet metal works. A circus guard fired four times at the beast. A policeman finished the wounded animal with a pistol bullet.

Want Financial Aid

Canadian Fisheries Ask Government Grant For Advertising Purposes

Montreal.—J. C. Eckman, Vancouver, and John Dybbaven, Prince Rupert, are among the Canadian Fisheries Association at the 19th annual convention here. Captain Frederick W. Wallace, Montreal, was elected president.

A resolution was adopted urging the Dominion government to vote $100,000 at the next session of parliament to pay the cost for newspaper advertising for the development of Canada's annual fish week was fixed for October 29 to November 3.

Creamery Survey In Alberta

For Purpose Of Determining Cost Of Manufacturing Butter

Edmonton.—Beginning in Calgary and in Edmonton, a creamery survey has been launched under the joint auspices of the provincial dairy branch, the University of Alberta, and the Dominion department of agriculture.

The purpose of the survey is to make a study of the cost of manufacturing creamery butter, and the cost of trucking or otherwise delivering cream supplies.

MAY BE CHAIRMAN

It is understood that Sir Thomas Whitelaw will be the chairman of the Royal Commission on Maritime Rights which has been appointed by the Dominion Government to determine the amount of subsidy which the Maritime Provinces should receive from the Dominion Treasury.

Takes Heavy Toll

Chinese Refugees Tell Of Lives Lost In Flood

Tschoow, China.—An unending stream of bedraggled refugees from the region flooded by the Yellow river, their homes and livelihood destroyed, has poured into Tschoow.

Government officials were considering a drastic proposal to transfer many of the refugees from the river valley to unsettled territories in Suiyuan province for rehabilitation.

Their crops destroyed and not knowing what to do, the refugees, wandering aimlessly, tell stories of acute suffering and vast loss of life in the flooded regions of southern Hopei and northern Honan provinces. It was reported thousands clustered together like frightened sheep, still occupy high spots in the Yellow river valley. Some still live in tree tops. Rescue work is proceeding slowly. The walled city of Changyuan has become an island, swirling flood water surrounding it.

Preparing New Voters' List

Registration To Begin October 15 And End November 17

Ontario.—Registration of electors in Dominion electoral districts throughout Canada will begin October 15 and end November 17. A proclamation setting these dates is being issued by Dominion Franchise Commissioner John Thomson.

Issuing of the proclamation is merely part of the work in the preparation of the new lists under legislation passed at the last session of parliament. In no way does it suggest any decision for holding a general election, it is stated.

The rural enumerators will sit to revise and correct their precinct lists on November 13, 14 and 15. The revision of the preliminary lists in urban polling divisions will commence on November 5 and will end on November 17.

Returns Home Via Canada

Vancouver.—Miss Sheila MacDonald, daughter of Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who left London, Sept. 1 for Melbourne and the Bura Canal to attend the Melbourne and Victoria state centenary, will return home to England by way of Canada, according to advice received by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company here.

HAVANA RIOT LINK IN SHIP FIRES?

Havana police have launched an investigation to determine whether a riot of dock workers at the Cuban capital as the liner, Morro Castle, was about to leave on her tragic voyage, may have some connection with the disastrous fire aboard the ship. This photo shows an aftermath of the riot, a young girl, injured as she stood watching the rioting, being lifted into an ambulance.

Tour Western Provinces To Secure Fodder For North Dakota

Edmonton.—Immediate survey of Alberta's fodder supplies with a view to marketing large quantities in North Dakota and possibly other drought-ridden states was planned by Hon. P. S. Girdale, provincial minister of agriculture, after a conference with Sheriff M. McGregor, of Brandon, purchasing agent for the Dakota's division of the United States federal emergency relief administration.

Sheriff McGregor reached Edmonton during a tour of the prairie provinces during which he is interviewing the officials and agricultural leaders. Accompanying him is W. Houtcouper, field representative of the North Dakota branch of the federal administration.

Mr. McGregor would not explain but did contradict, a despatch from Washington, which quoted Canadian officials there as disclaiming representation by him and denying that the administration or the states are in the market for Canadian hay or fodder. He has been accredited by the Dakota's section of the relief administration.

Huge Wedding Cake

For Royal Couple Will Weigh 800 Pounds

London.—The wedding cake for Prince George and Princess Marina of Greece will be seven feet, eight inches high and will weigh 800 pounds. It was learned as preparations for the wedding went forward.

The cake was ordered from Edinburgh baking establishment famous for its dairy pastries, and will be one of the largest ever baked in the United Kingdom. It will be necessary to send it to London in several pieces.

Prince George and his fiancée at present are staying at Glamis castle with the king and queen and Princess Marina's parents.

Criticism Of Lottery

New York.—A broadside of criticism was directed at the city's proposals to raise relief funds through new taxes and a municipal lottery. Threat of a legal fight against the lottery was voiced. Mayor P. H. LaGuardia admitted a lottery stood about one chance in 10 of being declared legal.

Solution Of Lindbergh Kidnapping Case Is Believed Near

New York.—Police Commissioner John R. O'Hanlon issued the following statement in connection with the Lindbergh case:

"The taking into custody of Bruno Hauptmann marks a new development in the case. The department of justice to bring to a solution of the Lindbergh kidnapping and with the facts at hand we are satisfied that the first and most important stage of the police work has been accomplished.

"The story as related by the detectives who have been engaged on the case for more than two and a half years might best be told in chronological fashion.

"Within two days after the payment of the ransom money in St. Raymond's cemetery, a $20 gold certificate was discovered in the River Savings Bank, on Amsterdam avenue and 96th street.

"Subsequently, one of the ransom bills, bearing the name automobile license number, was discovered in the Corn Exchange Bank at Park avenue and 125th street. From there the clue was traced to a gas station in the vicinity of the bank.

"The operator of the gas station described the bill, the investigators kept the $20 gold certificate in an almost identical fashion as the one described by the Furman shoe store proprietor.

"Securing the name and address of the owner of the automobile bearing the license number appearing on the bill, the investigators kept the premises under surveillance. Because of the importance of the case and the possibility of the escape of the men acted with caution and at 9 o'clock Tuesday, Sept. 18, Bruno Hauptmann was seen to leave his residence in the automobile bearing the license which appeared on the bill, and was identified by the police as the man known as Charles Yorkville, with the detectives following.

"When his car reached Tremont Park avenue, the detectives halted Hauptmann's car, directed him to get out and searching him, found another $20 gold certificate identical as part of the Lindbergh ransom.

"He was immediately taken back to his house and while questioned there admitted passing the $10 and $20 gold certificates found by the police. He denied, however, all knowledge of the Lindbergh ransom money.

"Meanwhile, a search of the place was instituted and a pair of shoes, bearing the name of the Furman shoe store proprietor was found.

"Today, in continuation of the search of the house, Detective John Murphy, Frank Dunn and James Petroski, of the New York police department; Sergeant Wallace, of the New Jersey State police; and Agent Turo of the department of justice found, after a diligent search of the premises, $13,750 in ransom money hidden in the wash of the floor of the garage and in the wash of the door.

"From the many conflicting stories Hauptmann has told detectives, we learned that he is 35 years old, born in Saxony, Germany, and after serving in the German army, stood away from the German army, arriving in the United States at New York in 1923.

"He explains the presence of the ransom money as a result of careful savings, and the gold certificates as foresight, with word of the supposed infant shortly after President Roosevelt took office."

Against Works Program

Calgary Wants To Spend Federal Grant In Own Way

Calgary.—By a polling of more than five to one, Calgary's property owners turned down a public works program involving expenditure of $180,000 granted by the Dominion government for that purpose alone.

The plebiscite, in which only one-fifth of the registered voters cast their ballots, coincided with the city's determination to seek leave from the Dominion government to spend the Dominion appointment on civil finance other than public works. Mayor Andrew Davidson visited Edmonton to enlist the backing of the Alberta government as an arrangement.

The citizens voted 2,829 against and 555 for repairs to the horse show building at the exhibition grounds, $15,000; 2,807 against and 392 for an assembly hall and gymnasium at Western Canada high school, to cost $85,000, and 2,514 against, 782 for a public swimming pool estimated at $75,000.

Widow Disbanded

Helene—William Frick, minister of the interior, issued a decree dissolving 13 Masonic lodges. No reason was given for the action except the statement that it was done under the Jan. 8 law giving the government the right to dissolve lodges.

No Lives Lost In Fire

Nome, Alaska.—It has been found that the two Eskimos that were reported to have lost their lives in the $3,000,000 fire of Monday are safe. This means that no lives were lost in the fire.

League Of Nations Hears Danger Of War In East Is Lessened

Geneva.—Busy with efforts to end war in South America, delegates to the League of Nations heard that the danger of war in the Far East has lessened.

A day of debate as the best way of halting the conflict in the Chaco Boreal was lightened by the association of Russian spokesmen, made private, that relations between Japan and Russia have improved.

The Russian sources also stated their belief that both Japan and Germany, recent withdrawal from the league, may be induced to return. Other quarters held similar hopes but declined to forecast their quick realization.

Geneva developments of the past few days, headed by the Soviet's admission to the League, have created the following impressions among delegates, surveys indicated:

1. Both Japan and Germany are doing some hard thinking as to the advisability of returning to the League, their train of thought started by Russia's entry.

2. A period of delicate negotiations with Japan to remove existing causes of friction will be necessary. Russian sources forecast, and other members of the League could fear that hostilities may break out before they are completed.

3. Leaders of the League look to the United States to help settle the Chaco conflict under the aegis of the League, believing that simultaneous peace efforts along other lines would only offer an excuse for prolongation of the war.

4. Efforts to form an agreement among the powers to protect Asian's independence by co-operative armament intervention thus far have not progressed notably, because Great Britain declines to participate and Yugoslavia backs Italian leadership in such an effort.

5. France and Russia have become "dancing partners" if not actual allies.

Maxim Litvinov, Soviet communist foreign affairs, and Louis Barthou, French foreign minister who staunchly defended Russia's position, were combined to centre the interest of the curious here. Assailed by autograph hunters, Barthou took off his coat the better to sign.

It is claimed the scheme is quite practicable and has been tested with success in other countries. No foundation is needed beyond a leveling of the road surface, upon which quarter-inch steel plates will be laid. SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the range, and now Joe Carr, your partner, is driving him into ruin."

(Now Go On With The Story)

"What seems to be the trouble?" Keene's tone was anxious.

"Exactly what I asked old Ben. He said that as far as he can see there are two reasons: Carr is mighty old-fashioned, and the Broken Spur is next to 'em."

"Well, what of it? These days some one's got to be no good."

"Huh. You're damned innocent for the man I know you to be. I suppose you never heard of rustlin'?"

"That's archaic," said Keene sharply. "Men don't rustle these days."

"Think so? Wait a bit! Old man Carr is always short of cash. He has to hire his men just for the time he needs 'em. He's got only about four or five men permanently on his payroll. That means that every time he hires men from buildin' up a bunch of waddies he could count on to charge him with a cup of water if the Hour-glass needed it. He's honest, too, and that's a handicap when he lives next to the Broken Spur. For years Dustin and Goddard have been keepin' a lawsuit, get the water supply that makes the Hour-glass valuable. Can't you see what happens? Old man Carr, crippled, is left rebbed, deaf, dumb and blind to make him sell his place."

"But he can only sell his share. Half of the place is mine."

"Well then, ..." Stone hauled himself erect in his chair. "... It looks to me as if one Gerald Keene, before long, will find himself partner to two crooks. If old man Carr is right, don't you see? Old man Carr will have to sell his half of the Hour-glass to these men Dustin and Goddard to stand square with the deed."

"Does your friend Lydon say these men Dustin and Goddard are two crooks?"

"He didn't have to say so. He said he couldn't understand 'em. Old Ben is so straight that the only man he doesn't understand is a crook."

"Well, ..." I told old man Burwell I was going to run down to the Hourglass and have a look at the place. If I go as the half-owner I'll learn exactly nothin' if there's any crookin' goin' on. The thinkin' it'll be best for me to go down there with a letter of introduction from Gerald Keene, the half-owner of the Hour-glass. To get me a job down there and see for myself what's goin' on."

"Huh. Gerald Keene'll learn then, but good on Gerald Keene's ranch," said Stone grimly.

"That's so, I can't go to the Broken Spur because if Dustin and Goddard are really crooked, they'll be hirin' any strangers on the place. If things are as crooked as mine, the Hour-glass'll be the place to learn about it. My plan's the best. I'll go down there with a letter from Gerald Keene and see if I can't get a job. You hear from me. I'll get me a job."

"Huh! What kind of a job? A crooked crook'll be under suspicion the minute he hits the place. Why would a qualified workman take on with a busted ranch when there are others better able to pay him what he's worth? You can't get a job."

"Keene slapped him on the shoulder. 'You're on. I can't. But I'll go as a tenderfoot. I'll take a letter of introduction to old man Carr. I'll be dig into the books for a job to learn the cow business. You know every amateur in the East is turnin' out diggers and prospectors. He'll be one."

"I know the type. Druggist cow-punchers! Nickled plaid gun an' a cowboy hat. Straight from Montgomery-Ward. Shucks, man! You can't do it. You can't fool anybody who's ever forked a cowboy ride. ... Nothin' done."

"I'll show you. Let me at that telephone till I order some stuff!"

In five minutes he had sent an order cranking across the wire.

"To be delivered in twenty minutes sharp," he said.

In a half-hour it was there and a grinning boy pounced the receipt.

Keene thrust the boy into the hall, under the package and turned to Stone.

"You damned old Doubting Thomas," he said. "I'll show you. Wait."

He was gone like a whirlwind. A half-hour later the door opened and a new figure stood in the doorway. Newness evoked all his garments. His etched body wrinkled at the girdle and his red-and-green shirt fairly crackled in its creases. His white cottoned chaps had evidence of the milks and his red-and-green shirt fairly crackled in its creases. His white cottoned chaps had evidence of the milks and his red-and-green shirt fairly crackled in its creases.

Stone showed three freshly fixed cuts across his left breast, both hands and right leg. Stone showed with laughter and Keene raised himself on his toes and studied his reflection in the long glass.

"The 'Dare Horse,' he said. 'I'm goin' down to the Hour-glass to get me a job tuckin' cows and calves and a little more. The plan is to learn all there is to be learned about cowmen by their ways. I'm not Gerald Keene. I'm Stone. I'm on the Rock Island route. I always did want to be a cow-puncher. Will I do?"

"You know what you'll do," quoth Stone between grin. "But if you don't out what the trouble is at the Hour-glass or the Broken Spur, you write for one Geri B. Keene. That's me! I'll help you zazz the ten of the best."

"Wait," Keene came back from the closet with a bottle and glasses. "Here's the health of Keene an' Stone. ... I'll wire if I need you."

"And when I hear," said Stone, left behind, "I'll sure come a-runnin'."

"You may need to," said Keene soberly. "I hope not but I'm afraid."

"All right, Old Timer. To the health of the new Duru Stone."

CHAPTER II.

"There he comes now! That's old Dad Kane as sure as shootin'!"

Sam Dustin, half-owner of the Broken Spur ranch, jerked a finger to the west and Spike Goddard, his partner, rose slowly and squinted in to the dust-haze of the range.

"You're a damned fool even to have grubstaked that old fool Dad Kane," he said explosively. "It's all your doin', too. Three hundred dollars plumb thrown away."

His words carried a sting. They were meant to do just that. Everything that Spike Goddard said or did carried a sting. His red face; his cold blue eyes, his wire-stiff reddish beard all bespoke combativeness and Dustin felt that sting. He knew that silence under the whip-lash of his tongue would annoy Spike more than any speech.

Dustin and Goddard had owned the Broken Spur for several years and all Crevasse County wondered how they made it. Pay. That they did make money was clear but none knew how they did it. Old Slim Peters, the decepted old cashier at the only bank in Sisco, could have told them that there were good reasons why Peters should tell nothing that affected Dustin.

"If you told me three years ago that you were aimin' to grubstake old Shanny Skin Kane," said Goddard, "I'd have told you it was the ne' of a damn fool."

"I know. An' then you stopped me from takin' up the Bar Circle range base for grass," mused Dustin. "That cost us over ten thousand. All because you were scared to take a chance."

This time Spike flushed. A man does not care to be reminded of his timorous moments that cost him money. He stood by his partner, scowling off into the sunset. Joint owners of the Broken Spur, they were as different as black is from red. Sam Dustin's tall figure, his dark, handsome face, his flawless teeth made a perfect foil for his partner who was as James. Editor of the Sisco Courier said: "As red as a fox and twice as shifty. I wouldn't trust the pair any further 'd I trust the negro couple I came out and pounded the supper summons on to him."

AIR-CELL BRINGS AN ENTIRE NEW THRILL IN RADIO

... TO HOMES NOT HAVING ELECTRICITY!

"Head the big game this afternoon, Jim—come in clear as a bell too. Now, we haven't electric wiring in our house, but our new Air-Cell radio sounds every bit as good as my cousin's set brings in programs we hear clearly before."

"I used to get into town every time our storage battery ran down. This new radio uses an Air-Cell battery that never needs recharging. I don't need a man staying home, though, because our Air-Cell set brings in programs we hear clearly before."

"That new Air-Cell radio is a wonder! I've been listening to it for a week now. It's always giving trouble, but I don't need a man staying home, though, because our Air-Cell set brings in programs we hear clearly before."

EVEREADY RADIO BATTERIES

The invention of the EVEREADY Air-Cell "A" Battery has made possible this entirely different battery-powered radio that gives the glorious full tone without need of electric sets.

The EVEREADY Air-Cell "A" Battery lasts for at least 1000 hours, which at 3 hours a day is almost a year's service in the average home. It is charged entirely with the atmosphere, expense and loss of time due to recharging are eliminated.

Used in conjunction with EVEREADY type "B" Batteries, Air-Cell radios, made by the leading radio set manufacturers, will perform with all the simplicity and reliability of any electric set.

Going Back To Spitzbergen

Elderly Swedish Hunter Likes Life Beyond Polar Circle

Making one of his rare visits to his home country, Andreas Qvarnstrom, who is 70 years of age, has spent the last 25 years in the polar regions as fur hunter and coal mine employee, has been telling the newspaper the Alchemist something of his experiences.

In the last few years he has lived the summer months as watchman at the coal mines in Spitzbergen, carrying on his trapping in the winter. He tells of long winter months in the frozen wastes without human companionship, of polar bears and Arctic foxes which have fallen by his rifle and been trapped by him. He estimates that he has secured the pelts of at least 200 bears.

Qvarnstrom has been shipwrecked in the polar seas. He has had to swim in icy water when his boat capsized, and when he reached firm ice, his clothes froze so quickly as pulled himself out of the water that he had to break the frozen cloth to be able to move his limbs.

In spite of his age and the hardships he has endured, Andreas is the best of health. He still feels the call of the wild and intends to return to his lone life in the inhospitable regions beyond the polar circle.

Preserving Indian Legends

Grandson Of Ojibway Chief Writing Stories He Has Heard

Indian legends are being saved for posterity by Robert Henderson, grandson of an Ojibway chief, who recently celebrated his 55th birthday at Selkirk, Manitoba.

Reaching the last stretch of his energetic life, Henderson has turned to the legends he picked up to write the stories told him by his elders. He was born at Fort Alexander, now Fort R. May, Aug. 14, 1818. He learned the alphabet from a clergyman who spent a winter at the fort. Since then, in all his travels he has been adding a little more each year to his knowledge.

Henderson is a veteran of the "Red of '98" and has prospecting and trapping in many parts of the Dominion, Yukon and the United States.

A Necessary Journey
"We must go to Stratford," a tourist on a visit to England said to his wife.

"What's the use of that?" asked she. "We can buy Stratford post cards in London."

"My dear, the one travels for something more than to send post cards! I want to write my name on Shakespeare's tomb!"

Laws Of Physics

Intricate Point Is Settled At The University of Saskatchewan

Laws of physics as operating in the court of Magistrate J. S. McKenney at Sudbury, Ontario, have no validity in Saskatchewan. In the physics laboratory at the University of Saskatchewan are two suspended leaden balls of equal weight. When one ball swinging slowly is struck by one swinging rapidly in the other direction, it is the slowly-moving ball that bounces back while the one previously in rapid motion becomes almost motionless. An authority physics points out that if two bodies of differing momentum (weight multiplied by velocity) meet, the resultant momentum will be the same. Direction as that of the major force.

An electric current always is passing down the atmosphere into the earth.

Tiny Fish Is Transparent

Species Called Goby Is Found In Tropic Waters

To anglers accustomed to catching deep sea fish on a heavy line, the tiny fish which swim around in the zoological museum at Stanford University would hardly seem worth while, but to scientists is the discovery of a decade.

This tiny species, called a goby, and less than two thirds of an inch in length, was brought to the museum by Dr. Albert W. Herre, curator and scientist of international reputation, on his return from a 40,000-mile trip in tropic waters.

The little transparent creature, unadorned as yet, is the smallest fish to have a whole backbone of its own. It is found off the Malay peninsula and is one of thousands of new species that clutter the museum.

"We caught them," he explained, "in rivers and lakes and the open sea from China to the Carolines, and from Yap to Cebu Town."

Try Out New Regulations

Denver Doctors Will Not Quarantine Measles Or Mumps

The presence of measles, mumps and chicken pox will no longer be proclaimed by quarantine signs on Denver residences. The juvenile disease—right, the bugbear of neighborhood, little children and businessmen—in the future will not keep members of the family indoors and visitors outside.

The quarantine sign has been dropped on advice of physicians who feel that the disease, while infectious, can be transmitted only by direct contact. And the physicians also believe the acutely contagious stage have been passed when the symptoms definitely appear.

The city health board will give the new regulation a one year trial.

Little Helps For This Week

Let I pray Thee Thy loving kindness

For thy comfort, according to thy promise, O God, Thy servant. Psalm 119:76.

Love divine has seen and counted Every tear it caused to fall; And the storm which Love has appointed Was its choicest gift of all.

O that thou couldst dwell in the knowledge and acuteness of this dove that the Lord beholds thy sufferings with an eye of pity, and is able not only to uphold thee under them, but also to do thee good by them. Therefore grieve not at thy lot, be not discontented, look not at the hardness of thy condition, but when the storms of vexation are sharp look up to Him who can give meekness and patience, can lift up thy head over all, and can cause thy life to grow and be a gain to all. If the Lord God of thy condition, by thy condition, be able to do thee good by them, therefore grieve not at thy lot, be not discontented, look not at the hardness of thy condition, but when the storms of vexation are sharp look up to Him who can give meekness and patience, can lift up thy head over all, and can cause thy life to grow and be a gain to all. HEALTH

Short of Breath

Under certain circumstances, it is quite natural and normal to be short of breath. When you have spent your money, you are short of breath until you can earn more, having spent your breath in some unusual physical activity, you are short of breath, until you have had time to take in more air.

Normally, we breathe at a rate of about eighteen to twenty times a minute. Ordinarily, we are conscious of breathing as we continue to inspire and exhale in an automatic way. It is only when we think about it, or when we become breathless, that we are aware of the rising and falling of the chest as the air is taken in or passed out.

Carbon dioxide, a waste product of all activities of the body, is got rid of through the lungs. Any increase of carbon dioxide in the blood, such as would result from physical activity, augments the rate and depth of breathing in an effort to eliminate it. It follows, that when we are asleep with the body activities at their lowest, then it is that breathing is most quiet.

We may say that there are two types of shortness of breath. One physiological or normal, which follows upon some active work or play; the other pathological or abnormal, which follows upon some mild exertion which ordinarily would not cause dyspnoea or shortness of breath.

The important question to be answered in each case is: Why has this condition developed? What is the cause? Now, we know that disease of the heart may be responsible; we also know that overweight, kidney disease, or disease of the interior may be mentioned as some of the possible causes.

It is not to be thought that these persons who find themselves short of breathless has something definitely wrong. On the other hand, if it is found that ordinary walking causes some increase in the rate of breathing, or that walking up a flight of stairs means a gasp or two, that is certainly not normal.

If you are, by chance, short of breath, do not try and diagnose your own case and give needless worry to yourself and your friends. Perhaps there is nothing wrong except that you are overweight, and the fat in and around your heart is interfering with its work. The one sensible thing to do is to find out if there is anything wrong, and if there is, to set about correcting it through proper care and treatment.

Guarantee Is Being Met

Announcement has just been made that the Alberta Wheat Pool for the third successive year has met its maturing obligations in full together with interest due to the Provincial Government in connection with the 1929 Wheat Pool overpayment.

At the time the government guarantee was agreed upon there was considerable misgiving as to the ability of the pool to make repayment in view of conditions in the wheat market. The record of repayment to date is reassuring. The pool has been doing a fair share of the grain business of the province. It will be a most desirable outcome if the pool can pay off the government guarantee and thereby re-establish the equities of thousands of farmers in the big line of elevators.—Calgary Herald.

Here and There

Reduced fares to cover the Labor Day weekend from Aug. 24 to 12 noon Monday, Sept. 2, have been authorized on the Canadian Pacific Railway between all stations in Canada. Round trip tickets will be at the rate of fare and a quarter and will be good until midnight, Tuesday, September 4.

The hunting season is here. In Canada the time of early frosts in the air and the maple, the birds, the crickets, the deer and the geese are gathering in favorite feeding grounds in preparation for their long flight south.

The game areas of Canada, scattered from ocean to ocean, are readily accessible from any part of the continent. It is not a country for the wealthy sportsman only; the hunter with moderate means may also be suited. Local residents can enjoy a trip at a very reasonable cost. Sportsmen from other lands are welcome and are only asked to show their appreciation of the privilege of access to her game fields by obeying the hunting laws and observing the ethics of sportsmanship.
